Academy Comments:

Strong academic gains in the 2005 MEAP proficiency scores were made in math and English language arts at both campuses. ABT opened in 1997 as a secondary school, with the elementary campus opening in fall 2003. Because this is a new grade configuration, there is no ED YES! nor NCLB phase reported by the state. In fall 2005, the secondary program moved to a new 8 acre location in Melvindale that features 23 classrooms, labs, gym and media center.

The academy met AYP status in 2004-05, and posting proficiency score gains in 2005-06 MEAP tests; high school scores are not yet released. Parent satisfaction is very high, in part due to the academy's newly renovated facility dedicated in winter 2004. The 150,000 square foot campus features 47 classrooms, multimedia center, gym, labs and cafeteria in a historically designated facility. The school will graduate its first class of seniors in 2007.

Academy Comments:

The academy moved its middle school to a brand new facility in fall 2005; the high school campus was newly constructed in 2004. Cesar Chavez Academy successfully serves a significant Hispanic population of students whose first language is Spanish. Thus, communications and instruction are provided in two languages. The first graduating class was in spring 2005, thus there are no NCLB phase data for the high school grades. The elementary and middle schools made AYP status in 2004-05 and made gains in English language arts proficiency scores on the 2005 MEAP tests; high school scores are not yet released.

Charlotte Forten Academy was originally established to meet the unique needs of children and youth who were in the juvenile justice, child welfare and mental health systems and who had demonstrated long-term failure in the traditional public school setting. As the system was taken over by Wayne County, a substantial number of these youth are no longer being placed in residential care; however, they are still juvenile justice youth. More than 78% of the current student population has some type of formal connection to the original care systems that were the mission of the school. The other students likewise have a long history of school adjustment and attendance difficulties and have been brought by parents or themselves to attempt one last chance at school success. This PSA was authorized by Detroit Public Schools during the summer of 2005 and opened on January 10, 2006, due to facility delays. Like the other Life Skills Centers in Michigan, this PSA is an alternative high school that works with an at-risk, truant, drop-out population by providing a small, safe learning environment that utilizes web-based software to create an instructional setting that is specific to the needs of its students. This PSA offers 2, 4-hour instructional sessions on a year around calendar that can better accommodate the students. In addition, the unique partnership with Covenant House of Michigan provides critical wrap-around social services that assist the students with the severe challenges they are faced with each and every day.

The academy made AYP status in 2004-05 and posted 2005 MEAP proficiency scores that were improved from the previous year. Through Consortium College Preparatory High School, the academy will graduate its first senior class in spring 2006; thus, there is not enough data to determine NCLB status for the high school. The school offers a highly regarded art program, participates regularly in the city wide science fair and has many university and community partnerships that benefit students. In addition, the 2004-05 parent attendance rate at teacher conferences was 92%, with parents highly involved at the school.

Academy Comments:

Hope of Detroit Academy made AYP status in 2004-05 and showed strong English language arts gains on 2005 MEAP tests. Through Consortium College Preparatory High School, the academy will graduate its first senior class in spring 2006; thus there is not enough data to determine NCLB status for the high school. Hope of Detroit Academy implements Success for All instructional methods in its reading program. The school serves a growing Hispanic population and provides bilingual communications. Staff wrote and won a Comprehensive School Reform grant, one of two charter schools in the state to do so. The grant, for $87,000, provides professional development training to staff.

This PSA serves a high-risk, truant, drop-out population of high school aged students. The 2004-05 school year was the first year of operation; the PSA utilized significant resources (27% of revenues) in order to provide the necessary improvements to the instructional space and adequate security to operate the school. The PSA's unique 2 session, 4-hour instructional schedule attempts to accommodate the needs of its at-risk population. Significant changes have been implemented to the PSA program thus dramatically improving the average attendance for the current school year to approximately 80%. Without this PSA, these students who have been discarded by "the system" would not be pursuing their high school diplomas.

We would like it noted that these scores are raw scores. We are still waiting for the confidence factor to be applied for small schools, as well as scores coming back to us from students that were at our school last year, but moved from the area. We are confident that when the confidence factor and these scores are added to our scores, we will make AYP. We have yet to see the official roster, which may need to be revised during the 10 day appeal period.
